MODSIM World 2019 will be held 22-24 April 2019 in Norfolk, VA

We live in a world that is changing at an unprecedented pace. Within commercial and service industries, technology advancements and innovations both disrupt and progress current practices and policies daily, requiring effective and efficient adaptation to remain competitive. Likewise, our nation’s military, first responders, government, and world leaders must be prepared to proactively respond to ever-changing shifts in threats, opportunities, politics, and policies. This pace of change requires that we predict and prepare for a variety of future opportunities in order to thrive under any circumstance. MODSIM World 2019 focuses on the application of Modeling and Simulation to support these ever-changing demands under our 2019 theme, “Enabling Digital Transformation with M&S”.

We are pleased to announce this Call for Abstracts for MODSIM World 2019, to be held 22-24 April 2019 at Hilton Norfolk The Main, Norfolk, VA. This year’s conference will bring together leaders in the M&S field focused on novel Modeling and Simulation applications and practices targeted at preparing for a rapidly changing future. This unique, multi-disciplinary, and international conference and exposition features four presentation tracks, focusing on M&S communities of practice: Analytics and Decision-Making; Cross Reality; Science and Engineering; and Training and Education. The conference program will highlight current advances across a range of relevant themes.

In addition to the presentations and panel discussions featuring leaders employing or developing M&S, this year’s program offers innovative and interactive events, such as the Technology Showcases, a Sim Century panel, and a Modeling and Simulation Challenge Competition, to provide an even more dynamic and engaging environment to share your ideas, results, products and services. The meeting will feature a wide range of M&S focused presentations, discussions, hand-on demonstrations, and numerous networking opportunities with experts, researchers, and sponsors in the modeling and simulation field.
